Market Review

Global Equities, as measured by MSCI All Country World Index, advanced quarter to date. Health Care, Materials and Financials led benchmark gains, while Real Estate, Consumer Discretionary and Consumer Staples underperformed the benchmark.

Tariff and policy uncertainty remained elevated during the quarter, alongside a government shutdown, while additional Federal Reserve easing and continued artificial intelligence (AI)-related capital expenditures supported broader market performance. Investor sentiment grew more cautious amid rising scrutiny around AI monetization with signs of slowing momentum across select parts of the economy. Against this backdrop, our investment approach remains unchanged. We continue to invest in high quality businesses that have sustainable competitive advantages and strong secular growth potential, and that operate in large and growing end markets where the penetration rate for their goods/services can be much higher over time. Companies we own tend to be asset light, have little financial leverage, strong pricing power, attractive unit economics, high margins, solid cash generation capability and the ability to succeed through different market/macro environments. While we have opportunistically added to some positions and initiated new ones, overall, we have made few changes as we remain confident in the long-term prospects for the businesses we own. We will continue to carefully consider and monitor fundamental variables, while managing overall portfolio risk and exposures.

Portfolio Activity

QTD underperformance has been primarily driven by unfavorable stock selection in Financials, Information Technology and Industrials.

Detractor MercadoLibre operates the leading e-commerce and digital payments ecosystem in Latin America, spanning online marketplaces, logistics, and fintech services. Its shares were a detractor during the quarter, reflecting perceived competitive pressures in Brazil and investor focus on management's decision to prioritize growth investments over near-term margin expansion. The company reported strong third-quarter results, with upside across key topline metrics driven by lower free-shipping thresholds, continued logistics build-out, first-party improvements, and credit card growth, partially offset by lower near-term profitability due to reinvestment. We continue to believe MercadoLibre is well positioned to benefit from the long-term penetration of e-commerce and digital financial services across Latin America and support management's reinvestment strategy as it prioritizes durable growth and market leadership.

Detractor Cloudflare offers a global cloud platform that provides security, performance, and reliability services to the applications of its customers. The company's cloud platform has a proprietary architecture that allows it to scale rapidly to meet customer demands, and its services are easily deployed and enable customers to run their applications without managing expensive and complex network hardware internally. We believe the company benefits primarily from intellectual property and efficient scale related competitive advantages. Cloudflare is poised to capitalize as companies seek high performance, low cost, and secure access to the internet, and developers build an increasing number of applications on Cloudflare's Workers platform. Its shares underperformed, amid broader weakness in high-growth software and heightened concerns following several highly publicized network outages, despite solid execution, accelerating growth metrics, and guidance that exceeded expectations.

Conversely, an average sector overweight position in Health Care and Materials, as well as an average sector underweight position in Information Technology contributed to relative performance.

Contributor Royalty Pharma is one of the largest buyers of biopharmaceutical royalties and a leading funder of innovation across academic institutions, non-profits, biotechnology, and pharmaceutical companies. We believe the company benefits from intellectual property and brand-related competitive advantages, supported by its scale, deep industry relationships, and long track record in structuring royalty transactions. By acquiring diversified royalty interests in approved or late-stage products, Royalty Pharma captures the upside of pharmaceutical innovation while remaining insulated from binary research and development risk. Its shares benefited from continued strong execution, as the company delivered solid quarterly results, raised its outlook, and improved investor confidence in the depth and robustness of its developmental portfolio pipeline and future royalty opportunities.

Contributor Royal Gold acquires and manages precious-metal streams and royalties, providing diversified, non-operating exposure to gold, silver, and copper production. Its shares benefited during the quarter from strong precious-metals pricing, which drove solid quarterly results. Shares were further bolstered by the announcement and closing of several strategic acquisitions, including a gold stream at the long-lived Kansanshi mine and the Sandstorm Gold and Horizon Copper transactions, which further diversified the portfolio.

Outlook

Counterpoint Global looks to own a portfolio of unique companies with diverse business drivers, strong competitive advantages and positioning, and healthy secular growth prospects whose market value we believe can increase significantly over the long-term for underlying fundamental reasons, independent of the macro or market environment. We believe having a market outlook can be an anchor. We focus on assessing company prospects over a five year investment horizon. Current portfolio positioning reflects what we believe are the best long-term investment opportunities.
